S. M. HULIN, Editor and Proprietor.

FRIDAY, JULY 31, 1874.

"HEAR THE OTHER SIDE."

This is the title of a pamphlet, published by Mason Loomis of Montclair, in reply to a Report of Julius H. Pratt of the same place, concerning the use of the funds by him, which were subscribed for the building of the new iron depot at that place.

In refutation of this Report of Mr. Pratt's, Mr. Loomis shows conclusively by figures, giving dates and particulars with great minuteness, that such Report was erroneous, and that there had been a misapplication of the money. It should be understood that all of the figures, dates, etc., in this pamphlet were taken from the books of the Montclair Railway Company, of which Mr. Pratt had the practical charge, and that Mr. Loomis was formerly one of Engineers of said company, and as such is intimately acquainted with the matters of which he treats. He is also one of the Receivers of the company; and it should be further noted that he, in his pamphlet makes the offer to submit the books of the company, in his charge, for examination, by any one interested, in order to either verify or disprove his statements. This seems to be fair, and in the absence of any adverse statements we are obliged to give full credit to him. In this matter Mr. Loomis uses Mr. Pratt as his authority. The only question is, has he correctly copied the books? If so, then that is the end of the whole matter, so far as the public interest is concerned.

But that there may be no doubt upon this point, it is corroborated by the statement of account by Charles W. Crane Esq., accountant, who is the expert clerk of the Receiver in Bankruptcy of this district. Until these facts are denied in detail and proven to be wrong, by evidence from the books from which they are claimed to have been taken, this being the only rightful source from which correct information may be obtained, all fair minded men must be convinced of their strict accuracy, and treat them as such.

We are constrained to make the foregoing explanation of the nature of Mr. Loomis' pamphlet, because an article has appeared in the "Saturday Gazette" which is calculated to unjustly prejudice people against this printed statement of Mr. Loomis, as well as against that gentleman himself. It seems to be the object of the editor of the "Gazette" not to attack directly the plain facts shown by Mr. Loomis, but rather to try and place that gentleman in a false position by wilfully assuming him to be an "unworthy" unworthy of respect or confidence!

Now see, too, "have read the pamphlet attentively," but fail to find a syllable in it to warrant the assumptions made by our contemporary. Respecting the motives of Mr. Loomis, and particularly the spirit in which his pamphlet is written, the reasons are fully given;—namely, to repel an attack upon him by Mr. Pratt, which was made, not in the heat of debate, but read from manuscript, calmly and deliberately, in a public meeting. If, under such circumstances, Mr. L. was expected to have done differently from that which he did, then we are sadly at fault in our estimate of the feelings and passions common to us all. No man with a spark of manliness in his bosom would have done otherwise than defend himself from such an assault.

We are told in the "Gazette" that Mr. Loomis's "vindictiveness detracts from the force of his statements." That "he seems to labor more to relieve himself of some fervid heart-burnings which he cannot extinguish than to present the simple truth for his readers to contemplate," etc. etc. There is also sandwiched in an earnest protestation of purity and non-partisanship on the part of the editor, who styles himself as a "dutiful journalist in the interest of truth, purity and peace," together with a good word here and there, as occasion offers, for Mr. Pratt. The editorial motive seems to be clearly to paint Mr. Loomis as black as can be, and Mr. Pratt, if not actually spotted, at least as a much-abused man, the editor, meanwhile coming in for the lion's share of satiricness.

But seriously, since the way has been opened for the discussion of a moral question, we must as a public journalist take exception to the Gazette's assertion that the pamphlet under consideration is calculated to do harm to the minds of our children, in consequence of its exposure and the comments made thereon. The question naturally arises in this connection, is the exposure and the most emphatic condemnation of a wrong harmful to the minds of our children? If so, then every paper published in the land, including the Gazette, should be kept from our households and families!

This duty is the great mission of the press. If wrong is exposed, condemned and punished, the effect upon the minds of our children and young men is good. And he who is instrumental in doing this is to be commended and sustained. But if wrong, when exposed, is excused, and the wrong doer made to appear to have acted honorably and worthily by persons of respectability, then the harm done by such exposure to the minds of our children will be incalculable. In such case however, the responsibility is not to be laid at the door of him who makes the exposure, but at the doors of those who strike at the very life of public morality by condoning the wrong.

Taxes for 1874.

The Board of Assessors for Essex county met on Monday in Newark, to adjust valuations and fix the rate of state and county taxes in each district. $100,000 was added to the valuation of Montclair, the Assessor of the township not being present, and $25,000 added to Bloomfield, under objection from our Assessor. A motion to increase valuations in Orange was lost. A motion, made by Assessor Oakes, that in future returns the real and personal property be kept separate, was adopted. The County rate was fixed at 71.67 per cent.

In Bloomfield township the indications are that taxes will be a little lower than last year. Mr. Oakes, our Assessor, returns the real estate valuation at $2,749,250; against 2,609,575 last year—increased $139,675. He returns the personal property at $507,781, against $425,958 last year—decrease $81,823.

The total township valuation, $3,257,031, is decreased by the liabilities, which are $140,570, to $3,116,461. The County Assessors add $25,000 to this, making the actual amount taxable $3,141,000.

These returns show for own township an increase of real estate over last year of upwards of 5 per cent.; and a decrease of personal property of about 18 per cent.

It is impossible to state exactly what the township rate will be, but it may be approximately estimated as follows:

County & State Tax	75
Township Tax ($17.222)	56
School Tax ($13.000)	47
Gas Tax (estimated $6.000)	30
Total	$236

The township assessment as per appropriations, etc., is as follows:

Roads	$5,000
Poor	2,500
Continuance	1,000
Crowdwalk and Public Ground	1,000
Road Board Ass't Bloomfield Ave.	5,222
Total	$15,722

It will be seen that if the $4,000 voted for grading, (and not required, as no Telford pavement has been petitioned for) should not be assessed, the rate will be reduced 13 per cent., leaving it $1.93. There has been some talk of fighting the Road Board assessment of $5,222, for Bloomfield Avenue, which is manifestly a fraud on the township. A proper combination on the part of the several townships which are saddled with that unjust burden, would probably have resulted in putting it where it belongs—on the county at large.

The estimate for gas, $8,000 which is really too much—about twice as much as the township ought to spend for this purpose.

Bloomfield Town Committee.

A meeting of the Township Committee was held on Friday afternoon, all the members being present.

The following bills, presented by the Overseer of the Poor, were ordered to be paid: Madison Bros., $23.23.

Collector Ira Campbell presented his bond, which was accepted and ordered filed.

A bill of $9, for insurance upon the Poor House building was changed to the contingent account.

On motion it was resolved that the clerk notify the town council to resign unless he can give the business of the Town Committee requisite attention.

It was resolved to pay the Bloomfield Gas and Water Co. $1,000 on account.

It was decided to advertise for proposals to light the streets of the township with gas or other lighting materials.

Adjourned.

Gas or Oil?

This seems to be the question which is uppermost in our town just at present. An advertisement for proposals by the Town Committee has appeared, inviting bids for lighting the streets in apparent antagonism to the present method. It will doubtless be a one-sided competition, that between gas and kerosene—and perhaps one in which the Gas Company will decline to enter. We can hardly believe it is the deliberate intention of the Town Committee to resort to oil, especially when we remember that it is less than three months since some of the gas mains were laid and the company given to understand that gas would be burned in the streets. We are certainly under some obligations to a company which we have authorized to lay eleven miles of pipes in our streets.

The fact is, we have danced, and must reasonably pay the piper. We have called in the doctor, and cannot consistently refuse to take his medicine.

Such is the situation between Bloomfield and the Gas Company to-day. It seems unjust, under the circumstances, to make a direct issue between gas and oil. But if kerosene can be used as a "seam" to coerce the Gas Company into contracting at a lower price than heretofore, it is a more legitimate use to make of it. And we hope the company will take the hint and offer to light us up at a cheaper rate.

Montclair Licenses.

Mr. Charles Leist, proprietor of the "Washington Hotel," on the Old Road has made application to the Township Committee to protect the regular licensed house in Montclair. His complaint was that three had paid their license of seventy-five dollars apiece which was for the benefit of the town, and that it was the duty of the officers of the town to close the unlicensed places or make them pay for selling. Some four or five new places had been started lately and are ruining the unhallowed though legitimate business of the regular hotels.

The Beecher Inquiry.

"Hope deferred maketh the heart sick," is a proverb which comes in at the present time in reference to Mr. Beecher and the atrocious charges brought against him by Mr. Tilton. The hope that has been so fondly indulged that he would establish his innocence and dispel the poisonous mist that is being so darkly casted. The daily newspapers, while the lingering uncertainty continues, rake the gutters to add new fuel to the flames of misery and discord. Confidence in Mr. Beecher is not as strong today as it was a week ago. Respect for the Committee which has undertaken the task of investigating the sad affair is rapidly giving way to a feeling of weariness, impatience and disgust.

"However honorable," says a New York evening paper, "the gentlemen composing the committee, it is nevertheless an ex parte affair, without authority to compel the attendance of witnesses, and with no great moral weight because of its one-sided and informal character. It is not a proper tribunal for the trial of a case of such seriousness and magnitude. Its methods are manifestly and necessarily unfair to Mr. Tilton, who is not represented in it, and does not appear before it by counsel, while his opponent is represented by two skillful attorneys. The witnesses do not testify under oath, and even if they did and should swear falsely they would not be guilty of perjury in the eye of the law because the committee has no legal status nor authority whatever. And the more they inquire and publish the more they complicate a matter that is sufficiently muddled and muddled already."

That the church committee is practically incompetent to acquire and deliver a satisfactory opinion concerning Mr. Beecher, —one that shall completely set at rest the charges made against him,—is one of the few facts that the case is developing. One of the latest phases is the inability of the committee to secure the attendance and testimony of Mr. Madison, whose letter to Mr. Tilton, meanwhile the press, to satisfy the popular clamor, eagerly snags up the forest of "hearsay evidence."

Another Terrible Freshet.

Pittsburgh and Allegheny City were visited Sunday night by a deluge exceeding in fatal results the Mill River disaster. A deluge from the clouds, occurring in the night, caused a sudden freshet in a thickly people district, and 200 human beings were swiftly overtaken by death in the sleeping moment. The latest reports state that about 110 bodies have been recovered, and it is said that 100 more persons are missing.

The stories as to the causes of the flood, says a Tribune dispatch, are so conflicting that it is hardly probable that the phenomena attending its origin will be placed on record. A few things are settled, however: That the storm came on without any startling premonitions of its severity; that it was accompanied by the ordinary characteristics of a Summer thunder-storm; that the storm itself was of short duration, the lightning meanwhile flashing continuously; and that although the fall of rain was heavy, few persons are found to say that they have not seen great quantities of water descend in the same space of time without serious consequences. Add to these facts that the flood came swift upon its heels of the storm and destroyed many lives and much property in a region never before visited by a disaster of this kind, and we have all that is definitely known of the rise and progress of the Allegheny flood.

The sudden rise of the waters in Beecher's Run is well illustrated by some incidents related by a German family, who reside in a stone dwelling opposite Haverly's glue works. The husband told his wife to go to the cellar to obtain some kindlings for the cooking stove, as he desired to go to work early Monday morning. The wife locked the door in the stove, but by the time she had completed her work the water had reached the floor. She informed her husband of the fact and suggested that he hasten to vacate the house, as the flood threatened to destroy it. The husband, who had been jumped out of bed into water knee deep, and with his wife proceeded to get children out of an upper-story window in the high ground in the rear. After he had accomplished this, the husband tied to a bedroom to get some clothing of a wardrobe, but in the mean time water reached such a height as to upset and he found it impossible to get the place he wanted, being compelled to vacate apartment hastily.

The Passaic drinking water, lately been made the subject of inquiring investigation. Here is the verdict from a Jersey City paper:

On Thursday last we were shown a flannel filter which had been used only a couple of hours on the nozzle of a house fly. The water drawn in that time had merely for family purposes, and yet the filthy matter nearly a quarter-inch and smelling worse than an addled egg. If our citizens desire to satisfy them of the impure character of the water the daily forced to drink, let them attach a net or muslin filter to their hydrants and they will soon obtain ocular demonstration that the Solons of the Board are more co-d than wise.

The stirring up of the placid sea discloses dangers which are certain and startling. Jersey City is pitted. Nor is bad water her only foe. There hovers over the city the morass of the Glendeaning scandal.

Communicated.

It was a pleasure to be present at the reception given to the Rev. H. W. Ballantine (the chosen pastor of the Presbyterian church) and his lady, at the residence of Mr. Isaac C. Ward, on Tuesday evening of this week. The guests, some 300 in number, attested their keen enjoyment of the occasion by their enthusiastic greetings and affectionate regard manifested to the new pastor, as well as by the kindly glow and mutual interchange of fraternal feeling and sentiment. The pleasing attention of host and hostess whose hospitality was so much enjoyed, the floral decorations, the many happy faces and animated expressions, all combined to make it a very enjoyable evening of those present. May it prove a propitious and promising much good in store for this favored church and their gifted minister.

WESTMINSTER.

Public School Affairs.

EDITOR OF THE RECORD:

The guests at the school meeting held on the 13th inst. gave notice that a new election for trustees would take place in August. They did so because it was understood that the State Superintendent had said the supplement to the school law passed in March required it. It was thought best to communicate directly with Mr. Aggar, State Superintendent, and the following note was received in answer:

"Your special act is operative in prescribing the mode and time of electing trustees for your district, that provision of your act is not repealed by the special law." Yours ELIAS A. AGGAR, State Superintendent.

Bloomfield, July 28, 1874. C. P.

Bloomfield Library Association.

A full meeting of the Board of Directors was held on Monday evening.

The Committee on Buildings submitted further plans embodying some suggestions, as to details, made at the previous meeting. They also reported as to the Architect's charges.

After a full expression of opinion it was unanimously resolved by a yeas and nays to adopt the plan, and the Committee on Building were instructed to have working plans and specifications prepared at once and to advertise for sealed proposals for erecting the building. This Committee were also instructed to ascertain at what price a few feet of land, adjoining the rear of the lot belonging to the Association, could be obtained.

It is expected to begin work at the building as quickly as arrangements can be completed and it is hoped the citizens of our town will lend their aid to the movement by subscribing liberally to the stock of the Association.

A considerable number of valuable books have already been donated to the library and it is hoped further donations of the same kind. Books may be left at the office of Mr. Horace Pierson.

The Board are to meet again on next Monday evening.

A Mistake Corrected.

EDITOR RECORD:

I introduce myself to your readers as the Fourth of July "visitor" whose opinion concerning the Saturday Gazette was recently given in the form of a colloquy in that paper. You will remember that I pronounced the "Gazette" a very creditable country newspaper, but noticed the absence of town advertisements in its columns, and attributed the same to a want of enterprise on the part of the merchants of the place. But I find, sir, I was sadly led astray in the last particular. Since then I have seen a copy of the Bloomfield Record, where I see all the butchers, coal dealers, grocers, etc. represented, and now I hasten to correct my mistaken impression. Your merchants, it seems, do advertise, and that right liberally. You see I happened to get hold of the wrong paper. It turns out that The Record is the paper which is supported in your town, and that the sheet I first stumbled upon is only an opposition concern filled up with outside advertisements foreign correspondence, editorial advertising puffs, and very little home news—a paper well calculated to make a tolerable impression at first sight, but one which don't wear well when it comes to a close scrutiny.

And now, if you will print this as my reparation of the injustice I unintentionally did your wide-awake business men, I shall feel greatly obliged.

HOBOKEN, JULY 32, 1876.

"VISITOR."

A reunion of the congregation of the First Presbyterian church, of which Rev. H. W. Ballantine is pastor, took place on Tuesday evening last at the residence of Mr. Isaac C. Ward. The reception was given for the purpose of affording the congregation an opportunity to become acquainted with their new minister and his wife. The attendance embraced a very general representation of the large congregation, the parlor, at times, being thronged with visitors. Messrs. T. H. Ward, E. D. Ward, and J. G. Broughton received the people at the door, and materially assisted in promoting the general enjoyableness of the occasion. From the very cordial interchange of courtesies between minister and people it is inferred that new relationship will be mutually pleasant and profitable.

A man named Sullivan had his hand blown off in Jersey City, yesterday, by the explosion of a cartridge which he had picked with a pin to ascertain what it contained.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

The election for School Trustees in Montclair is ordered to take place August 3d.

The excellent private school of Miss Michel and Miss Knevit will open Sept. 8th. See advertisement.

The work of grading Ridgewood Avenue, north of Bay Avenue, is being accomplished by the Road Board.

Mr. Henry Lindemeyer, accompanied by Mrs. L. and two children, sailed for Europe on Monday, for a two months absence in Germany.

Mr. A. A. Smalley has in contemplation the building of two fine houses on Liberty street. The plans are now being estimated upon.

R. N. Dodd has put up a neat sign with gilt letters on his express office. He ought to complete the job by publishing his card in THE RECORD business column.

An enterprising party on Broad Street has established a traveling ice-creamery. The affair, mounted on wheels is propelled on sultry evenings, by the proprietor, who goes from house to house in a smiling countenance and a white apron, ready to creamify any person who may feel disposed. Those who know, say the process is a pleasant one.

The track at West End Junction having been rebuilt, the Montclair Railway trains are running through to Jersey City and making good time.

Monthly commutation tickets from Bloomfield to New York are being sold at the office, 111 Liberty St., at $7.50, the 6 months rate. Tickets to other stations on the line, pro rata.

Taxes in Newark are to be somewhat lower this year than last, the rate for 1874 having been fixed at $1.87, being a decline of 11 cents from the rate of last year. The tables of valuation for the last ten years show that from $55,616,000 in 1865 the valuation in Newark has increased about three-fold being in 1874 $104,692,850. The greatest increase was in 1869, when the valuation was raised $15,220,700.

The New Church at Caldwell.

The Presbyterian Society of Caldwell have commenced the erection of a new church which when completed will be a magnificent structure. Architect Eichen of Orange is superintendent of the work. We are indebted to the Orange Chronicle for a description of the edifice, the corner-stone of which was laid with due ceremony on the 16th inst.

The ground plan of the church for a T. the main building being 60 feet front by 90 feet deep, a lecture room 37x70 feet extending across the rear. The style of architecture is the style of the new school of architecture, which is from the magnificent quarry of Shinnock & Co. on Second Mountain, is a light colored, fine grained, sandstone, susceptible either of polish or tooling. The body of the work will be laid in broken masonry, and the portion of the walls already raised show that the whole will be very fine. The contractors for the stone work, Messrs. Shinnock & Co., are allowed one year in which to complete their portion of the work, but they confidently expect to be through with their contract within six months. Mr. C. P. Anderson, of this city, has the contract for the carpenter work. The site of the new church is the triangle formed by Bloomfield Avenue and the Centerville and Westfield roads, and is one of the finest that could possibly be found. The present pastor is the Rev. C. T. Bourne, who began his labors March 28th, 1869. The existing Board of Trustees is composed of the following: N. O. Baldwin, Jonathan Provost, J. D. Mead, Thos. L. Small, F. W. Crane, Wm. J. Best and Philip H. Harrison, to whose efforts in connection with those of the pastor the success of the great work now in hand is largely due.

Mrs. Theodore Tilton is the mother of four children, Florence, aged sixteen; Alice, aged fourteen; Carroll, aged eleven, and Franklin, aged five. Two of the children are said to be with Mrs. Tilton's mother, Mrs. Morse, who resides in Montclair.
